2016 Annual Report

CRYSTAL JUDSON FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER

LETTER FROM THE BOARD CHAIR & CENTER DIRECTOR

Dear Friends of the Crystal Judson Family Justice Center,

Change for most organizations, and people, is inevitable. It is one thing that we exist to do: provide our clients with the tools to help effect positive changes in their lives and that of their children. Woven through this annual report is the story of one survivor. Her story is one of hope and resilience – one of many that we are lucky to be able to witness firsthand.

We are inspired by the tenacity with which our clients face the challenges and changes in their lives. As you may have noticed, there is a new name affixed to this letter. One of the changes we have experienced is replacing our founding Director, Susan Adams. We wish her all the best as she embarks on changes of her own. We thank her for her leadership and vision over the last 12 years.

Please enjoy our 2016 annual report. Writing an annual report is an opportunity to look back on the past year's events - the challenges, frustrations, accomplishments and joys. We are so proud and honored to do the work that we do and hope you will join with us to end domestic violence in our community.

2016 PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

COMMUNITY ADVOCACY PROGRAM

Survivors can access on-site crisis intervention services on a drop-in basis in a welcoming environment. Survivors meet with a trained advocate to develop safety plans, receive domestic violence education and connect to other services at the FJC and in the community.

2,378
survivors visited the center in 2016

2,231
follow-up calls
made in 2016

Advocates provide continuing support to survivors in implementing their safety plans and connecting to housing, legal and mental health services.

PROTECTION ORDER PROGRAM

Working one-on-one with advocates, survivors are able to file for a protection order at the Family Justice Center. This program also provides court support and assists survivors in coordinating the service of orders.

In 2016, 359 Protection Order Petitions were filed at the Family Justice Center and 481 petitioners were provided court support.

PIERCE COUNTY DOMESTIC VIOLENCE HELPLINE

Trained advocates and volunteers assist survivors, community members and other professional callers with safety planning, domestic violence education and referrals, increasing access to information and knowledge in our community.

6,846
callers were assisted by the Helpline in 2016

“I hope you feel the incredible impact you have on the lives of those you rescue.....”

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY/LAW ENFORCEMENT

survivors
attended this support group
in 2016

“I enjoy my freedoms everyday - driving myself to work, taking my kids on adventures, seeing my family and friends, hell, buying me a pair of pants, knowing my decisions are my own without fear, teaching my kids who their mother really is - none of these, big or small, would have been possible without you.”

INTERN INSIGHT

I always knew I wanted to have a job that focused on helping others and my internship at the FJC was the perfect place to begin to explore the world of professional advocacy. Whether that was through meeting with clients in person and helping them safety plan or listening in on helpline calls and hearing advocates best address the needs of the caller, I learned so much about community work and what it means to tirelessly serve others in need.

What struck me as most interesting, though, was the legal aspect of the internship. Helping others file for protection orders and then ultimately seeing those cases in court was incredibly rewarding.

The FJC acts as a liaison between the community and the legal system; they are an interpreter to make a complex process of filing for a domestic violence protection order easier and more accessible to those who need them. Many times, I was able to meet a client in desperate need of help, watch the process of the advocate guiding them through their petition for a protection order, and then be a familiar face for them to stand with during their court hearing.

Being a court advocate for clients and working so closely within the legal system to help others during my time as an intern at the FJC has inspired me to go to law school. I was able to see firsthand how the courts can help (and sometimes fail) those who are seeking protection within the legal system and I want to work to improve our government to better serve others.

My internship at the FJC was pivotal in helping me further my passion of helping others and in inspiring me to go into law as an advocate.

“Yesterday marks a year from the date of my divorce and it’s time for me to reflect on the progress I’ve made, remind myself to keep pushing, and appreciate those that have helped me this far. I enjoy my freedoms everyday - driving myself to work, taking my kids on adventures, seeing my family and friends, hell, buying me a pair of pants, knowing my decisions are my own without fear, teaching my kids who their mother really is - none of these, big or small, would have been possible without you. I hope you feel the incredible impact you have on the lives of those you rescue. You always made me feel like it was me doing the work, me getting myself to the next milestone, but it wasn’t achievable without this kickass no bullshit attitude you both have and share with people to help us feel the strength needed to keep pushing. Thank you a million times, thank you. I could never remember the date I got married, but today is with me forever! Thinking of you guys often.”
